INTERCOLLEGIATE

ON THE COVER

My name is Audrey Mecklenburg, I am a senior at Wesleyan College majoring in studio art, minoring in early childhood education. I have enjoyed artmaking since I was a child. In school, I was the kid that doodled my way through each class. In high school, I attended my first formal art class. Now, I am completing my bachelor's degree and starting my own studio as a professional artist focusing on a variety of media including acrylic painting, photography, and sculpture.

In my current body of work, I am exploring the spirit of the horse through a deeper context rooted in my own experiences, beliefs, and emotional connection with horses. This exploration began in 2021 and I will exhibit my first body of work through this exploration April 12th, 2022, in the McCreery Gallery at Wesleyan College. In this collection of work, I want to convey a sense of empathy, emotion, healing power, and spirit horses bring to humans. I do not want to paint or sculpt or photograph a horse, any artist could do that. I want to capture a feeling, a moment in time in which the viewer can get lost in.

WELCOME FROM THE IDA PRESIDENT

On behalf of the IDA board of directors, I would like to welcome- athletes, coaches, family and friends to the 18th Intercollegiate Dressage Association Championships, in a year that normally would have marked our 20th championship. This year is especially gratifying as the IDA, along with the rest of the country, is emerging from the constraints of COVID-19. While missing two years of intercollegiate competition has been disappointing to our riders, teams and schools, it has paled in comparison to the losses experienced by so many in our community. This year, as we celebrate coming together in the spirit of competition, we recognize our friends and colleagues who have dealt with personal loss due to the pandemic.

The competition will be divided into 3 days of friendly rivalry. On Friday, riders from various regions will come together for only our second Dressage Seat Equitation event at the Championships. In addition, for the 7th year, the top 5 riders in each level from around the country will move on to the final round of the USDF/IDA quiz challenge. On Saturday 48 individual riders will compete in 4 divisions and on Sunday the top 12 collegiate teams will vie for the honor of being named the National Intercollegiate Dressage Championship Team.

Each rider competing earned their way here through regional competitions throughout the academic year. I would like to congratulate all of you for the success you have already achieved by your presence here. You are all winners.

A special thank you goes out to our horse providers: Appalachian State University, Averett University, Emory and Henry College, Otterbein University, University of Virginia, and multiple private horse owners.

Several special trophies will be awarded this weekend:

- The high point rider at 1st level individual will be awarded the Trip Harting Memorial Trophy, in memory of dressage judge and IDA supporter Trip Harting,
- The high point rider at Introductory level individual will be awarded the Mary Beth Mclean Trophy, honoring a former St Andrews instructor
- The Beukema National Team Championship Trophy, designed by Trotting Horse Workshop will be awarded on Sunday to the top placing team.
- The Reserve National Team Trophy, designed by Geoff Herguth, will be awarded on Sunday to the second-place team.
- The Teresa MacDonald coach of the year trophy, awarded in memory of founding IDA member and longtime IDA coach "T", will be presented at Friday's annual meeting.

Thank you to our Title Sponsor, TheraPlate and all of our other wonderful sponsors for making this weekend possible.

I wish everyone a wonderful weekend filled with good sportsmanship and camaraderie.

Warmly,
Ginger Henderson

CODE OF CONDUCT & MISSION

IDA Code of Conduct:

Intercollegiate Dressage Association (IDA) Members, including riders, coaches, officials, and volunteers must conduct themselves in a sportsmanlike manner, and are responsible for their actions in competitions, going to and from competitions, and while at areas hosting competitions. Members are responsible for adherence to IDA competition rules and procedures. IN all equestrian sports the well-being of the horse shall be above the demands of trainers, riders, owners, organizers, sponsors, or officials. IN the interests of the horse, the fitness and competence of the rider are essential. All riding and training methods must demonstrate respect for the horse as a living entity and may not include any technique considered to be abusive or overtaxing of the horse's ability or fitness.

NOTE: Anyone may approach the steward or show management to report violations(s) to the IDA Code of Conduct. Unsportsmanlike conduct may result in disqualification from an event, loss of points earned at the event, and possibly prevent participation in future IDA events at the discretion of show management, show steward, and/or IDA Board.

Mission:

The mission of IDA is to introduce students to the equestrian discipline of dressage and to foster continued development, understanding, and appreciation in the art of dressage through organized student competitions and educational opportunities.

Please note the following:

- ASTM/SEI approved headgear is required for all riders and must be worn while mounted.
- The show will be run according to USEF rules.
- Entry Fees and Liability Release forms must be collected before the competition begins.

A SPECTATORS GUIDE TO DRESSAGE

BY BETH BEUKEMA

THE DRESSAGE TEST

The dressage tests today are part of the basic training scale that dressage riders use to school their horses from training level through the highest level of competition, the "Grand Prix" dressage, as performed in the Olympic Games. The training begins with free, forward movement of the horse, relaxation and swing through the back and acceptance of the contact. In this weekend's Intercollegiate Dressage Competition the tests ridden range from walk/trot to first level. The riders and horses perform a series of set patterns at walk, trot, and canter in a 20 x 40 meter or 20 x 60-meter arena. The movements range from 20-meter circles, lengthening the horse's stride across a diagonal, halts, counter canter, and transitions from one gait to another. Leg yielding, where the horse moves sideways and forward simultaneously is shown in the first level tests.

JUDGING THE TESTS

Today two judges will preside at the competition arena with the scores averaged for the final tally. Each movement in the test receives a mark from 0-10, with a 5 or 6 being an average score and a 7 or 8 denoting a fairly good or good performance. The final scores are calculated as a percentage of the total points and the winning rides will usually receive a score in the 62-72% range.

One of the most challenging aspects of IDA competition is that the riders are allowed only a 10-minute timed warm-up to become acquainted with their mounts before entering the arena in front of the judge. Dressage is primarily judged on the horse's movements, but today the skill and the influence of the riders will be shown in the test results. For the team competition the horses are grouped by the horse selection committee, and the teams draw groups of four horses that are assigned to the riders by the coaches.

REMINDER: Please do not speak with riders once they are in the competition ring. This is considered unauthorized assistance and may cause the elimination of the rider.

NO FLASH PHOTOGRAPHY IN THE ARENA. ALL CELL PHONES SHOULD BE SET TO VIBRATE ONLY.
